A biopic about the chart-topping musical act Air Supply. It will explore the highs and lows of the band's career and their rise to international fame. It follows Graham Russell and Russell Hancock, the two founding members of Air Supply, as they pursue their musical dreams, rising from humble beginnings in Australia to a breakthrough in the United States. Air Supply found success with a series of romantic ballads. Their hits include "Here I Am," "Lost in Love," "The One That You Love", "All Out of Love", "Every Woman in the World" and "Even the Nights Are Better." The group scored seven Top 5 singles in a row, tying the Beatles' consecutive run, and went on to sell more than 100 million albums worldwide while playing over 5,000 shows.

Avatar: The Last Airbender takes place in a world that is divided into four nations: the Water Tribes, the Earth Kingdom, the Fire Nation, and the Air Nomads. "Benders" are people that have the ability to telekinetically manipulate and control the element corresponding to their nation, using gestures based on Chinese martial arts. The "Avatar" is the only individual with the ability to bend all four elements. The four nations once lived in harmony, with the Avatar, master of all four elements, keeping peace between them. But everything changed when the Fire Nation attacked and wiped out the Air Nomads, the first step taken by the firebenders towards conquering the world. With the current incarnation of the Avatar yet to emerge, the world has lost hope. But like a light in the darkness, hope springs forth when Aang (Gordon Cormier), a young Air Nomad — and the last of his kind — reawakens to take his rightful place as the next Avatar. Alongside his newfound friends Sokka (Ian Ousley) and Katara (Kiawentiio), siblings and members of the Southern Water Tribe, Aang embarks on a quest to save the world and fight back against the onslaught of Fire Lord Ozai (Daniel Dae Kim). But with a driven Crown Prince Zuko (Dallas Liu) determined to capture them, it won't be an easy task. They'll need the help of the many allies and colorful characters they meet along the way. Gwen, a talented and offbeat teenage girl, is instructed by the narrow-minded administrators at her school to cover her artsy nude drawings with bathing suits in order to gain acceptance to the prestigious Art Camp. Her low-life but loving father, Joe, owns a strip club and offers to pay for the art school, but in exchange, the girl must gather dirt on her alcoholic, bed-hopping mother, Dora, for their custody battle. Torn between her estranged, immature parents, Gwen befriends her schoolmate, William, a nerdy, black teen raised by white parents, who is bent on a harebrained plan to form an advocacy group that will educate adoptees like himself about their African-American roots. William inspires Gwen to threaten legal action based on her constitutional right to free speech, allowing her to keep her nude drawings intact. Newly empowered, Gwen takes control of her life and she and William sneak away from the dysfunctional, bickering adults in their life to enjoy their newfound independence. In The Beast In Me, since the tragic death of her young son, acclaimed author Aggie Wiggs (Danes) has receded from public life, unable to write, a ghost of her former self. But she finds an unlikely subject for a new book when the house next door is bought by Nile Sheldon, a famed and formidable real estate mogul who was once the prime suspect in his wife's disappearance. At once horrified and fascinated by this man, Aggie finds herself compulsively hunting for the truth – chasing his demons while fleeing her own – in a game of cat and mouse that might turn deadly.

After learning about the history of safe-cracking, we dive into the story of Frank Pierson, a skilled vault-cracker serving a 30-year sentence for a diamond heist. Frank's expertise becomes crucial when Russians rob a bank, trapping 19 employees in an airtight vault with limited air supply. FBI head Kay Hollis enlists Frank's help, offering freedom in exchange for opening the vault. As Frank devises a plan, we discover the robbery's deeper layers, including revenge motives by Vitaly, the mastermind behind the heist that incarcerated Frank, and a betrayal among the trapped employees. Frank must navigate these complexities and incorrect safe schematics to save lives and secure his freedom.

Ady Barkan loved taking afternoon runs on the California coast and holding his newborn son, Carl. But one day, he noticed a troubling weakness in his hand. At first, he brushed it off as carpal tunnel syndrome, but after a week of neurological exams and two MRIs, he learned the cause of the problem: amyotrophic lateral sclerosis, better known as ALS or Lou Gehrig's disease. At age thirty-two, Ady was given just three to four years to live. Yet despite the devastating diagnosis, he refused to let his remaining days go to waste.

The half-hour comedy based on an Eli Manning sketch that aired on ESPN+, follows a hotshot quarterback (Powell) whose college career ends after bad behavior. He then disguises himself as the talented and affable Chad Powers, who walks onto a struggling Southern football team. Zahn will play Jake Hudson, the charismatic Head Coach of the show's flagging college football program. He's about to be put out to pasture when along comes the talented oddball Chad Powers (Powell) – and with him, one last shot at glory. Mattfeld will play the sweet and smart Ricky, the first female assistant football coach in Catfish History (University of Nashville) who is also the daughter of Catfish Head Coach, Jake Hudson. On the job for two months, she is fast-talking, pumped and eager to play a key role in the upcoming season. Also canny, with a good head on her shoulders, she may find Chad a tad odd, but is impressed by his tryout, later reminding him not to get too wrapped up in the newfound fandom. As a former college track star, she knows just how addictive it can be when one is idolized. (August 19 - October 15, 2024)

The most important time of the year for Asha Singh is Christmas time, so when she's stuck working during the holidays one year, Asha is wishing for some Christmas magic to get her through her shift at the hospital. Her wish is granted in the form of reconnecting with a boy from her high school, Jake. Jake is a Christmas wish come true for Asha, especially when he proposes a year later. Their engagement brings their first Christmas visit to their hometown, which knocks off the rose-colored glasses from their picture perfect relationship – their families could not be more different! Juggling Asha's big Christmas loving family who only want the best for her and Jake's parents, who could not care less about Christmas is proving to be a challenge as Asha and Jake have to learn if they can overcome their differences and survive a Christmas with the Singhs.

Eight years ago, Citadel fell. The independent global spy agency - tasked to uphold the safety and security of all people - was destroyed by operatives of Manticore, a powerful syndicate manipulating the world from the shadows. With Citadel's fall, elite agents Mason Kane and Nadia Sinh had their memories wiped as they narrowly escaped with their lives. They've remained hidden ever since, building new lives under new identities, unaware of their pasts. Until one night, when Mason is tracked down by his former Citadel colleague, Bernard Orlick, who desperately needs his help to prevent Manticore from establishing a new world order. Mason seeks out his former partner, Nadia, and the two spies embark on a mission that takes them around the world in an effort to stop Manticore, all while contending with a relationship built on secrets, lies, and a dangerous-yet-undying love.

Cleopatra is the daughter of Ptolemy, ancestor of the leader of Alexander the Great's army. When Rome's ruler Julius Caesar's mentor-turned-rival Pompey fled to Egypt after a brutal war for control of the empire, Egypt became a fixation of Roman rulers. Two siblings battled for the throne of Egypt. After winning that internal struggle by appealing personally to Caesar, Cleopatra had a complicated relationship with Rome, becoming the lover of Caesar and later Marc Antony. The latter alliance would become the undoing of both Antony and Cleopatra.

After the tragic loss of his wife and son in a car accident, Frank Morley is consumed by guilt and withdraws from life, immersing himself in his work. Frank works as a Prison Examiner for the Florida Department of Corrections, traveling the state evaluating aging and rundown prisons to determine their operational viability. It's Christmas, 1987. Beaten down by life and after too many miles on the road, Frank pawns off a last-minute investigation to his younger colleague and protégé, Alan. This will be Alan's first solo job as an examiner. After only a week into his new assignment, Alan mysteriously dies and Frank is thrust back into work to pick up the pieces. Frank is resolved to finish the job, but he's also driven to find out the truth about his colleague's untimely demise. Frank finds himself in the dilapidated Osceola Correctional Facility, nestled deep within the heart of the Everglades. Osceola is under the control of Warden LaRue, a man who has devoted his entire existence to the prison. As Frank delves deeper into the case, tensions rise between him and the Warden, who staunchly defends his prison's ability to operate, as well as the not-so-subtle accusations that the prison and its staff are to blame for the young investigator's death. As Frank uncovers the secrets surrounding Alan's death and the prison's mysterious past, he puts himself and everyone else around him in grave danger. Tensions reach a boiling point as a raging storm intensifies outside and the body count rises inside, as inmates continue to die in gruesome and suspicious ways. In his pursuit of the truth, Frank unravels the mystery of the prison's sinister past while finally confronting his own deep-seated grief and guilt from his tragic loss. The story reaches its climax as Frank uncovers the shocking secrets that have plagued Osceola for decades, ultimately leading to a life-or-death showdown. (September 7 - October 6, 2024)

In Cold Water, Lincoln plays John, a repressed man who is shocked to find himself in middle age, secretly raging at his life as a stay-at-home dad. When his failure to intervene in a violent confrontation in a playground brings his identity crisis to a head, John ups and moves his family to the rural idyll of Coldwater, as far away from London as possible. Upon arrival, John is quickly befriended by next-door neighbor Tommy (Bremner), a charming, confident man, devoted husband to the local vicar Rebecca (Myles). He is a man of faith, a pillar of the community and self-appointed leader of the village's all-male book group. John is both impressed and slightly fascinated by Tommy. His wife Fiona (Varma) despises him. As a successful former chef hoping to launch a new venture in Coldwater, Fiona sees the move as an opportunity to leave the past behind them. To not only re-build their lives as a family but re-ignite the long-lost spark in their fading marriage. When her husband's relationship with their enigmatic new neighbor becomes increasingly intense, Fiona's suspicions are aroused. She is unconvinced Tommy is all he seems to be. But John remains blissfully unaware that Tommy is harboring horrifying secrets, and it's only after a series of unsettling incidents start to occur that John begins to wonder who the real Tommy actually is. And when John's long-repressed rage comes to a head with disastrous results, he soon finds himself unexpectedly indebted to his new friend.

Countdown starts following a suspicious murder in broad daylight, which leads to LAPD officer Mark Meachum (Ackles) being recruited to join a secret task force of undercover agents from all branches of law enforcement to investigate. But as the truth of a more sinister plot comes into focus, the team must overcome their conflicting personal agendas to unite and save a city of millions. Camacho will play Amber Oliveras, a Special Agent, Drug Enforcement Agency with 14 years on the job. Undercover in multiple operations. She’s a badass who won’t take crap from anyone. She’s intrigued by this new opps team and though she seems to do well enough on her own, it’ll be a nice change of pace working with others. Dane will play Nathan Blythe, Special Agent in Charge who’s been with the Bureau for 22 years. Military cut, trim, fit, and packing an imposing glare, he’s seen a lot in his days on the job, and he has a passion for fighting for justice. Though this isn’t his first task force he’s led, this one is different. He had already been looking into a potential deal going on with a foreign player trying to buy off DHS officers, but was denied when he tried to open an investigation. After Darden’s death, he took matters into his own hands and started going around certain people and keeping things tightly locked, including this opps team. He carefully assembled and handpicked everyone on it and doesn’t hesitate to light a fire under them. He wants this solved by any means necessary. (September 2024 - February 2025)

A grounded modernized retelling that leans into visceral horror whilst paying respect to the original classic. The story involves the members of a fossil-hunting expedition down a dark tributary of the mist-shrouded Amazon, where they enter the domain of a prehistoric, amphibious "Gill Man" — possibly the last of a species of fanged, clawed humanoids who may have evolved entirely underwater. Tranquilized, captured and brought aboard, the creature still manages to revive and escape — slaughtering several members of the team — and abducts their sole female member, spiriting her off to his mist-shrouded lair. This sparks the surviving crewmen to action — particularly those who fancy carrying the girl off themselves.

(Scarlett Johansson mentioned for the female lead.)

The fascinating story behind the making of Bruce Springsteen’s most surprising album, Nebraska, revealing its pivotal role in Springsteen’s career. Without Nebraska, Bruce Springsteen might not be who he is today. The natural follow-up to Springsteen’s hugely successful album The River should have been the hit-packed Born in the U.S.A. But instead, in 1982, he came out with an album consisting of a series of dark songs he had recorded by himself, for himself. But more than forty years later, Nebraska is arguably Springsteen’s most important record—the lasting clue to understanding not just his career as an artist and the vision behind it, but also the man himself. Nebraska is rough and unfinished, recorded on cassette tape with a simple four-track recorder by Springsteen, alone in his bedroom, just as the digital future was announcing itself. And yet Springsteen now considers it his best album. Nebraska expressed a turmoil that was reflective of the mood of the country, but it was also a symptom of trouble in the artist’s life, the beginnings of a mental breakdown that Springsteen would only talk about openly decades after the album’s release.

Having had her state benefits cut to shreds after being made redundant, a young woman with very little left to lose begins to build an illegal drugs empire. But Emily (Jones) isn't your average street-dealing dope peddler – she's sharp, funny, biting, highly educated – and on top of all that, she has cerebral palsy. People have underestimated Emily her entire life. If they're not patronizing her for completing the most menial of tasks, they're pretending she's not there. What better disguise could there be for criminal activity than to be entirely written off by the same broken system which exists to protect the law?

A romantic comedy and a candid portrayal of a modern marriage between two stressed out Angelenos who celebrate their anniversary by going on a digital diet at a secluded cabin in the forest where they restrengthen their relationship by getting back in touch with nature. Liv and Matt, like many Angelenos, are more connected to technology than they are to their true selves or their marriage. Liv is an urban bohemian poet who is unable to write because she is burnt out by life's constant demand to be connected to addictive digital devices. Matt is a musician who rarely picks up his guitar, but always has digital technology in his hands, or on his wrist. When they start to make plans for their anniversary Liv happens upon a "Dora the Explorer" poster. She hears the call of nature and persuades Matt to go to a secluded cabin in the forest — and to leave their digital devices at home. Their trip is filled with mishaps and obstacles such as shorting out the electricity, a prankster neighbor, indecipherable maps, a leaky tent, hungry chipmunks, and poison oak. The tension between them culminates in Liv's discovery that Matt has broken their agreement by bringing his phone and he has secretly been checking it! Liv and Matt face their shortcomings and find their way back to each other during a cute scavenger hunt through the forest, and commemorate their anniversary with a romantic night under the stars.

Set in a near future Margate, against a backdrop of soaring inequality, The Dream Lands tells the story of Chance, a young woman who discovers life and love, while being forced to fight for her family’s survival in a world that’s crumbling around her. It’s 2039 and temperatures are soaring, seas are rising, and the political climate is equally as menacing. Chance is living a life of crime just to get by, when her community is singled out for a government rejuvenation scheme, promising to bring her coastal town back to life. But when Chance falls in love with Franky, a girl with ties to the establishment, she and those closest to her begin to realize that all may not be as it seems. The Dream Lands is a thrilling voyage of romantic awakening and self-discovery, a defiant community fighting back. Part conspiracy thriller and part relationship drama, the story blazes with the enduring power of love and hope, in a world spinning out of control.

Set in the rich farmland of the Salinas Valley, California, this often brutal novel follows the intertwined destinies of two families - the Trasks and the Hamiltons - whose generations hopelessly re-enact the fall of Adam and Eve and the poisonous rivalry of Cain and Abel. Spanning the period between the American Civil War and the end of World War I, the story highlights the conflicts of two generations of brothers; the first being the kind, gentle Adam Trask and his wild brother Charles. Adam eventually marries Cathy Ames, an evil, manipulative, and beautiful prostitute; she betrays him, joining Charles on the very night of their wedding. Later, after giving birth to twin boys, she shoots Adam and leaves him to return to her former profession. In the shadow of this heritage Adam raises their sons, the fair-haired, winning, yet intractable Aron, and the dark, clever Caleb. This second generation of brothers vie for their father’s approval. In bitterness Caleb reveals the truth about their mother to Aron, who then joins the army and is killed in France. (October 2024 - March 2025 | w/t “TIMSHELL”)

Fallout is the story of haves and have-nots in a world in which there's almost nothing left to have. Two-hundred years after the apocalypse, the gentle denizens of luxury fallout shelters are forced to return to the irradiated hellscape their ancestors left behind—and are shocked to discover an incredibly complex, gleefully weird, and highly violent universe waiting for them. The series stars Ella Purnell as Lucy, an optimistic Vault-dweller with an all-American can-do spirit. Her peaceful and idealistic nature is tested when she is forced to the surface to rescue her father. Aaron Moten is Maximus, a young soldier who rises to the rank of squire in the militaristic faction called the Brotherhood of Steel. He will do anything to further the Brotherhood's goals of bringing law and order to the wasteland. Walton Goggins is the Ghoul, a morally ambiguous bounty hunter who holds within him a 200-year history of the post-nuclear world. These disparate parties collide when chasing an artifact from an enigmatic researcher that has the potential to radically change the power dynamic in this world. Every Thursday. 9pm. Tom and Evie (Wood) watch a film together in her garage. Evie lovingly decorates the space to match the film of the week - from a yellow brick road for The Wizard of Oz to a space craft for Alien. It's magical. They're there for the love of the movies. Or at least, that's what they tell themselves. In reality, Tom is madly in love with Evie. What he doesn't know is that Evie is in love with him too. But when Tom accepts a job at the other end of the country, their happily ever after comes under threat. He's leaving in six weeks. That means Evie has six film clubs left to tell Tom how she feels, or risk losing him forever. Evie is going to have to navigate all of this amongst the chaos of her family home – her eccentric and unconventional mother, Suz, and her younger sister Izzy. A trio of women full of love, and dysfunction, in equal measure.

The criminal misadventures of Eddie Horniman and Susie Glass will continue in The Gentlemen Season 2. The series, inspired by the Guy Ritchie movie of the same name, is coming back to Netflix for a deeper look into the criminal underbelly of aristocratic Britain. The Gentlemen follows Eddie (Theo James), who becomes the new Duke of Halstead following his father's death. In addition to the new title, Eddie also inherits the family's sizable country estate — and the illegal weed farm located underneath it, run by the sophisticated yet ruthless Susie (Kaya Scodelario) and her crime boss father Bobby Glass (Ray Winstone). Although hesitant to join the criminal lifestyle at first, he develops a taste for it and finds an unexpected ally in Susie as they face down the UK and Europe's most notorious and hilarious gangster families. And by the end of the first eight episodes, Eddie solidifies himself as co-owner — along with Susie and Bobby — of the Glass' massive weed empire.

Going Dutch follows arrogant loudmouth U.S. Army Colonel (Leary), who after an epically unfiltered rant, is reassigned to the Netherlands, where he is punished with a command position at the least important army base in the world. After serving with distinction in every war zone of the last three decades, he now finds himself in charge of a base with no guns, weapons, or tactical purpose. Instead, it has a Michelin-star level commissary, a top-notch bowling alley, and the best (and only) fromagerie in the U.S. Army. Surrounded by a diverse group of underdogs, the colonel tries to reinstall military discipline and professionalism with the help of the base's previous interim leader, who happens to be his estranged daughter. In the multi-camera comedy, old school, stoic Bobbie (McEntire) has owned a Tennessee tavern with her dad for the past ten years, and when he dies, she's shocked to learn that he has named 20-something Isabella co-owner of the business. Can she find it in her heart to welcome Isabella to the business. Peterman will portray Gabby, a bartender who has worked at the tavern for quite some time. She is a bit needy and dramatic and would have loved to be Bobbie's sister. Escobedo stars as Bobbie's sister Isabella, an enthusiastic 20-something, who has studied psychology and loves to analyze people. She is thrilled to start working at the tavern and is full of "great" ideas about how to bring it to life. Tokala will play Takoda, a waiter at the tavern with serious handyman skills and probably the kindest person you've ever met. Linn will play Emmett, a cook at the tavern who is described as a man of few words. Castelblanco will play Steve, the accountant for the tavern who does his work at the bar. He has OCD and doesn't like change.

Connor MacLeod, an immortal from the Highlands of Scotland who has been alive since the 1500s and now lives in plain sight as the head of a charitable foundation in New York. He was killed back in the day and somehow revived to live a full life with his wife and love Heather, and when approached by Ramirez with talk of his immortal nature and destiny, he refuses to abandon her until her death by natural causes, and never stops missing her even today. Then he looks up Ramirez and learns of their powers and their place as warriors, and their destiny to battle amongst themselves until only one remains. He has lived many lives over the centuries and counted Ramirez as his companion along the journey, as well as fellow immortal Castegir. But the strongest among them Kurgan is out to claim supremacy, and one day found Connor and Ramirez centuries in the past and killed the latter. Connor then bested Kurgan and buried him under tons of rock and told the others he was dead. But now Kurgan has surfaced again and is out for blood. FBI agent Lara suspects Connor when people start turning up dead but he evades her, until she witnesses herself that those like him and Kurgan cannot be killed except by one another. He is found by Castegir and tries to get him to join forces against Kurgan, but Castegir is after power himself and Connor is forced to fight him. (Micheal Fassbender mentioned for the role of a Mongol Warrior.)

Two years after being laid off from his job at a paper company, Burke Devore is becoming increasingly desperate as he watches everything he's worked for slip out of his grasp. He hatches a bizarre plot to target the job he wants and then eliminate his likely rivals for the position, literally killing off the competition. Soon suburban streets and shopping malls are littered with the bloodied corpses of unemployed paper executives as Devore schools himself in the methods of murder, variously shooting, hacking up, and running over his victims. The project details the mysterious death and the surrounding media frenzy in the murder of JonBenét Ramsey, a case that captivated an entire nation and left us with more questions than answers. The series is expected to explore in detail all possible suspects. JonBenét Ramsey was 6 years old when she was reported missing from her Boulder, Colorado home on December 26, 1996. She was found dead several hours later in the basement of the home, along with a long ransom note. An autopsy revealed the cause of death as strangulation and was ruled a homicide. Boulder police initially believe JonBenét's mother, Patsy, had written the ransom note, and that the note and child's body had been staged by her parents in an effort to cover up the murder. Her brother, who was 9 at the time of JonBenét's death, was cleared as a suspect in 1999. In 2013, unsealed court documents revealed that a 1999 grand jury had recommended filing charges against the Ramseys, which included hindering the prosecution, but the DA determined there was insufficient evidence to pursue a successful indictment. The case remains cold to this day.

Season 2 kicks off a year after Molly Wells (Rudolph) settles her very public divorce from tech billionaire John Novak (Adam Scott), and we find her thriving in her role as the head of her philanthropic organization, the Wells Foundation. Focused mainly on her charity work, Molly has sworn off any new relationships with men and embarks on a wellness journey. Fabulously single but not particularly independent, Molly keeps her trusty assistant Nicholas (Booster) by her side. He diligently caters to her every whim ... and occasionally feeds her a kale smoothie spiked with gin. Sofia Salinas (Rodriguez), the no-nonsense executive director of the Wells Foundation, continues to run things with compassionate efficiency, but her all-business ethos is thrown for a loop when she meets Molly's charismatic architect friend Isaac (O-T Fagbenle). The bromance between Howard (Funches) and Nicholas also continues to flourish as they support each other in their endeavors both inside and outside the workplace. Meanwhile, Arthur (Faxon) has moved past his feelings for Molly and has adopted a new devil-may-care attitude on life, a change encapsulated by a very lame leather bracelet. The Wells Foundation team, including Rhonda (Meagen Fay) and Ainsley (Stephanie Styles), must pull together as co-workers and friends as Molly strives to publicly live up to her promise of giving away all of her vast fortune. Season 3 will pick up after the Season 2 finale that saw Molly Wells and her trusted and unhinged assistant Nicholas (Joel Kim Booster) board Molly's private jet following her awkward exchange with her will-they, won't-they colleague Arthur (Nat Faxon). Where will the PJ land? Season 3 will continue to follow the antics of the beloved group of misfits at The Wells Foundation. (w/t "TARZANA")

Based upon a true story of Henry Cyril Paget, 5th Marquess of Anglesey: one of the richest men in Britain; an obscure theatrical dandy; a dreamer with no limits who inherited the equivalent of £11m a year and died penniless; lost, ill and forgotten at the age of twenty-nine in the south of France. A tale of the ultimate poor-little-rich-boy, a victim of excess and neglect - who spent more than he was given, gave more than he took but invited the world to look at him for what he truly was...a Twentieth Century Boy.

A biopic about the family behind the high-performance automobiles that, along with Ferrari and Lamborghini, Italy is known for. Maserati was founded in 1914 in a garage in the central Italian city of Bologna by three brothers: Alfieri, Ettore and Ernesto. The trident that is the company's emblem is a replica of the one found in the Fountain of Neptune in Bologna. From early on the company, which is now known for exotic luxury cars, was tied to the world of auto racing. Maserati's first Grand Prix racing car, called "Type 26," is the vehicle that Alfieri Maserati was driving in the 1927 Messina Cup race when he had a near fatal crash. Alfieri died a few years later from complications related to that accident on March 3, 1932, at the age of 44. In 1937 the brothers, while remaining involved, sold a controlling stake in the company that is now owned by Fiat. In 1939, Wilbur Shaw won the Indianapolis 500 at the wheel of the Maserati "Boyle Special." He repeated the feat the following year, making Maserati the only European manufacturer to win the Indy 500 twice.

The series follows three best friends — gay gentlemen of a certain age — who, after an unexpected death, decide to spend their golden years living together in Palm Springs where the wealthiest one lives with his mother and a naked Gen Z housekeeper. As a chosen family, they prove that no matter how hard things get, there's always someone around to remind you it would be better if you got your neck done. Lane will play Bunny Schneiderman while Bomer will be Jerry Frank. Lavin will take over as Bunny's mother, Sybil Schneiderman. A successful businessman with one foot in retirement, Bunny is forever in search of love, but he first has to be convinced he's worthy of it. Like her son, Sybil's strengths are her weaknesses: wise, caring, and iconoclastic — which sometimes means she's critical, smothering and amoral. Jerry left the Mormon Church and his marriage in his early 20s after his wife informed him and the rest of the congregation that he was a homosexual. Now a latter-day saint in the literal sense of the term, Jerry is pure of heart. He is also hard of body and soft of head.

Neuromancer, takes place in the near future in a cyberpunk setting. Cyberpunk is a genre that focuses on future societies where technology has advanced, but crime and corruption have as well. Common features include globe-spanning mega-corporations, cybernetically enhanced mercenaries, and the importance of technology as a tool for crime. The story follows the experiences of Case (Turner), an out-of-work hacker who is contacted by a mysterious new employer called Armitage. Along with Molly, a mercenary cyborg, and a thief/illusionist named Peter Riviera, Case participates in a series of data thefts for their employer. Their first job has them stealing an electronic copy of the mind of McCoy Pauley, a brilliant hacker who taught Case a great deal of what he knows. They steal this electronic mind to help them in performing their next job. After that, the group must head to Freeside, an enormous space habitat in orbit around Earth. Freeside serves as a luxury resort and casino for the wealthy, and it is also the location of Villa Straylight, the home of the incredibly wealthy and powerful Tessier-Ashpool family. The group's second job is to break into the Villa Straylight and hack into Wintermute, a powerful artificial intelligence created by the Tessier-Ashpool family. In the end, it turns out that Wintermute itself was behind the whole scheme. Government regulations put careful restrictions on artificial intelligences to prevent them from getting out of hand, and Wintermute was using Armitage and his team to break those restrictions. This allows Wintermute to merge with another A.I. called Neuromancer, becoming a new, more powerful electronic being. (September 30 - May 12, 2025)

Following the untimely death of the sheriff of the town of Normal, Ulysses (Odenkirk) fills the void as a substitute lawman until an official replacement is named. It's a sleepy town (population: 4,890) with simple problems, yet Ulysses can't shake a nagging suspicion that life is just a little too perfect for the colorful townsfolk. When an out-of-town couple robs the lone bank, they unwittingly blow the doors off the secret to Normal's too-good-to-be true success. Everyone—from the bartender to the priest—is on the payroll and ready to kill to keep the town's secrets under wraps. And now Ulysses, who's up-till-now focused only on running away from the demons of his past, must take a stand and fight. With no choice but to form an alliance with the robbers and a disaffected loaner, it's up to Ulysses to take on the town's citizens-turned-assassins in a bone-crunching, bullet-dodging, relentless fight for survival. But the residents of Normal will stop at nothing to protect their way of life. (October 15 - December 13, 2024)

Until an old friend begs her to stage a gossip-worthy royal diversion! Reluctantly, Caro packs her shamefully non-designer bags and prepares to masquerade as a European prince's latest squeeze... Used to pampered princesses, Philippe doubts Caro's ability to look the part, but soon her warmth and humor - and the odd fashion faux pas - are toppling hearts like dominoes! Meanwhile Caro's uncomfortably aware that their play-acting is increasingly convincing. It's a tempting fantasy - after all, Philippe is gorgeous - but in the real world ordinary girls don't become princesses - do they?

As a child, Dolly (Schafer) was relentlessly bullied until one day, in a fit of uncontrollable rage, she accidentally killed her tormentor by driving a rake into his eye. This traumatic event haunted her into adulthood, leading her to believe that her overstimulated hearing, which allows her to perceive colors invisible to others, was the cause. To prevent another outburst, Dolly now lives as though she is deaf, using noise-canceling earplugs to dull her senses. Struggling with guilt and burdened by her criminal record, Dolly works a menial job at a printing factory. Her life takes a turn when, on the subway, her earplug falls out, and she sees a mysterious advertisement that seems to vanish when she puts the plug back in. The ad leads her to Palette, a company dedicated to harnessing the power of color to influence human behavior and save lives. At Palette, Dolly meets Latrice (Rapace), who recognizes Dolly's unique talent. Despite her reservations about removing her earplugs, Dolly aces a color test, proving her value to the company. However, she quickly clashes with Sidney (Shaw), a less gifted but ambitious colorist who is willing to cross any line for success. Their rivalry culminates in a violent confrontation, reminiscent of Dolly's past. Yet, Palette, driven by their mission, overlooks the incident, keeping Dolly on board as their most valuable asset in their quest to discover life-saving colors.

Two best friends. Ten summer trips. One last chance to fall in love. Poppy and Alex. Alex and Poppy. They have nothing in common. She's a wild child; he wears khakis. She has insatiable wanderlust; he prefers to stay home with a book. And somehow, ever since a fateful car share home from college many years ago, they are the very best of friends. For most of the year they live far apart—she's in New York City, and he's in their small hometown—but every summer, for a decade, they have taken one glorious week of vacation together. Until two years ago, when they ruined everything. They haven't spoken since. Poppy has everything she should want, but she's stuck in a rut. When someone asks when she was last truly happy, she knows, without a doubt, it was on that ill-fated, final trip with Alex. And so, she decides to convince her best friend to take one more vacation together—lay everything on the table, make it all right. Miraculously, he agrees. Now she has a week to fix everything. If only she can get around the one big truth that has always stood quietly in the middle of their seemingly perfect relationship. What could possibly go wrong?

You've just committed the crime of the century. You stand to gain millions. But someone's on your trail. A shape-shifting superhero who's infiltrated your quarters and masquerading as something in your very room. But what? The brown chair sitting by the window? The desk propping up your computer? Or could it possibly be the gaudy red and yellow chandelier no one in their right mind would ever buy? Pop culture's silliest superhero, Plastic Man is as much a humor icon as a heroic one. During a heist gone wrong, petty crook Patrick "Eel" O'Brian was doused in chemicals, allowing him to stretch his body into any shape he desires. Nursed back to health by altruistic monks, he was inspired to embrace life's brighter side. Taking their ideals... maybe one step too far, Eel abandoned crime, becoming the pun-dropping, wise-cracking Plastic Man. Able to morph into anything—a table, a countertop, even a woman's dress—he can bounce, stretch, and repel any foe. No weapon as sharp as his wit, he'll introduce jocular justice to humanity's darker side as the premiere amalgam of humor, action, and heroism.

The extraordinary true story of the pressure-cooker environment facing the decision-makers behind D-Day, and how their liberation of Europe was entirely at the mercy of the weather. The story will hone in on Group Captain James Stagg (Scott), Chief Meteorologist at the Supreme Headquarters Allied Expedition Force, whose job it was to inform General Dwight D. Eisenhower (Fraser), Supreme Commander of the Allied Forces, of weather conditions that would make-or-break the Allied invasion. Despite a prolonged heat wave and the tide and moon conditions aligning, Stagg made a bold case for the invasion being delayed from June 5 to June 6 to avoid an incoming front and ensure better conditions. German meteorologists had assumed the invasion wouldn't take place when it did due to the forecast of unfavorable conditions but the decision to delay by a day ultimately meant the Allies avoided the unexpected gales that did arrive on June 5 and gave them a window of opportunity to successfully carry out the invasion. The window of opportunity for the invasion couldn't have been any smaller. Had the Allies waited any longer the Germans would have spotted the build up of troops on the British coast, and soon after the operation the French coast was lashed by some of the worst storms in decades. The fates of millions of lives and the course of the war were resting on Stagg's decision and ultimately it paid off, as Eisenhower explained to Walter Cronkite in a potent CBS interview from 1964. In his 40s, Aaron Tealey (McGraw) is an honest-to-God Texas hero, a cocksuro rodeo star who wears a championship belt buckle for bull riding — but his body is a mess, a partly-mended sack of broken bones that threatens to go ragdoll every time he rides — a bull, a golf cart, anything. Gloria Soto is a teenage girl who could take away Aaron's belt buckle and his legend — one of these days, with proper mentoring, if she doesn't get herself killed. Naomi Soto, Gloria's mother, wants her daughter to stick to algebra and chemistry and stay far away from the rodeo ring (it should be called The Fool Killer). Two questions will be answered soon: 1. Which way will Gloria jump? 2. How hard will Aaron land?

Morgan Grant (Williams) and her sixteen-year-old daughter, Clara (Grace), would like nothing more than to be nothing alike. Morgan is determined to prevent her daughter from making the same mistakes she did. By getting pregnant and married way too young, Morgan put her own dreams on hold. Clara doesn't want to follow in her mother's footsteps. Her predictable mother doesn't have a spontaneous bone in her body. With warring personalities and conflicting goals, Morgan and Clara find it increasingly difficult to coexist. The only person who can bring peace to the household is Chris—Morgan's husband, Clara's father, and the family anchor. But that peace is shattered when Chris is involved in a tragic and questionable accident. The heartbreaking and long-lasting consequences will reach far beyond just Morgan and Clara. While struggling to rebuild everything that crashed around them, Morgan finds comfort in the last person she expects to, and Clara turns to the one boy she's been forbidden to see. With each passing day, new secrets, resentment, and misunderstandings make mother and daughter fall further apart. So far apart, it might be impossible for them to ever fall back together.

The story turns on five Finnish women who escape imprisonment after having worked for the Nazi army in Norway during the last months of WWII. As they set on a grueling journey on foot through the arctic wilderness, they soon learn that although the entire Finnish nation once collaborated with the Nazis, only certain women are now treated as traitors, the synopsis says. Among the women is Irene, who is pressured to come up with a story to explain her months of absence to her husband. When she reaches home, she drops all efforts to lie, leaving her doomed marriage for good for the life of a drifter.

Set against the backdrop of a remote loch-side Scottish holiday cabin park and set over the course of one single rainy summer's day, Summerwater looks at the simmering tensions between holidaymakers that eventually erupt into a devastating climax. Weaving together the lives of several families as they navigate unspoken conflicts, private dilemmas, and fleeting moments of beauty from their disparate cabins, the series will take an unflinching but empathetic look at human nature across generations. Each episode will spotlight one or two of the ensemble of characters, spanning from young children to young lovers to reminiscing pensioners, to build a subversive, often witty, and always riveting portrait of the nation on edge that is modern Britain.

A biopic of the late chef Anthony Bourdain, who came up cooking various restaurants across Manhattan in the 80s and 90s including being the exec chef at Brasserie Les Halles in Manhattan but it was his essay collection about the ugly secrets of restaurants that put him on the map. Following there publication in the New Yorker, Bourdain became an instant star on the media food scene due to his point-blank, tell it how it is tone that audiences were not accustomed to. He would begin hosting a number of shows but it was his Travel Channel show Anthony Bourdain: No Reservations, that made him star over its eight season run. Tragically, Bourdain passed away in 2018 after committing suicide.

In 1962, Elsie Brunner (Robbie), a stunning woman, attends a mansion party to pilfer valuable earrings. She encounters Jack Mason (Gosling), a handsome safecracker with the same intention. After stealing the earrings, they pretend to be a couple to elude suspicion. However, they develop a mutual dislike and separate after the party, with Elsie unknowingly taking the earrings. Later in Monte Carlo, they discover a priceless jewel owned by shipping magnate Aristotle Onassis, who had annihilated Jack's wartime comrades. Seeking revenge, they plot to ruin Onassis financially by preventing his victory in the rigged Monaco Grand Prix and stealing the diamond. To succeed, they assemble a diverse team of men and women. Let the adventure begin! (October 2024 - February 2025 | Javier Bardem mentioned for the role of Aristotle Onassis.)

Fifth grade was the worst year of Marc's life. He stunk at gym class, math was too hard for him, the school lunch was horrible, and his class field trip was ruined because he couldn't swim. But what was the most awful thing about fifth grade? Kenny Williamson, the class bully, who called himself the "King of the Jungle". When Marc's mother tells him that his uncle Jake is coming to stay for the whole summer, Marc can't wait. Uncle Jake is a for-real super-cool Navy SEAL. And Uncle Jake has a plan. He's going to turn Marc into a warrior. Becoming a warrior isn't easy. It means a lot of pull-ups, sit-ups, push-ups, squats, swimming, eating right, and studying harder than ever before! Can Marc transform himself into a warrior before school starts in the fall - and finally stand up to the King of the Jungle himself? (August 14 - October 18, 2024 | w/t "YELLOWBELT")

Jay Gardiner has given himself a fool's errand—to find the remains of his deceased father in the Pacific Ocean off the coast of Monastery Beach. He knows it's a long shot, but Jay feels it's the only way for him to lift the weight of guilt he has carried since his dad's death by suicide the previous year. The dive begins well enough, but the sudden appearance of a giant squid puts Jay in very real jeopardy, made infinitely worse by the arrival of a sperm whale looking to feed. Suddenly, Jay is caught in the squid's tentacles and drawn into the whale's mouth where he is pulled into the first of its four stomachs. He quickly realizes he has only one hour before his oxygen tanks run out—one hour to defeat his demons and escape the belly of a whale. (Timothée Chalamet mentioned for the lead.)
